Library Resource Information

The Village Genealogical Society has over 280 books and CD-ROMs, located in the Coronado Center Library. Also, there is a computer reserved exclusively for genealogy use – to open/read the CD-ROMs. Note: this computer is not online, but is attached to a printer.

Most of the books are located in the non-fiction genealogy 929 section (Dewey library system “call number”). Ask the librarian at the desk where this is located. A few books may be located in other areas, depending on their category: maps, bibliographies, etc. The library determines this.

CD-ROMs are in a CD rack on the shelves behind the computer. There is a list by the computer regarding what program to open to view various CDs. It should also be on the back of the CD case.

View and print the attached list (or relevant pages), or make a note of the call number before you go to the library. The books in the library are placed in call number order, and it will help you locate the books you desire. The attached digital list is searchable, so you can search a state or other category. There is also a printed list in a binder next to the genealogy computer for your reference.

Happy hunting,
Judy Robbins
