

Man faces indecent behavior charges

By Laura Bond

laura@rustonleader.com

A 20-year-old Ruston man remains in the Lincoln Parish Detention Center today after being arrested on charges of indecent behavior with a juvenile.

Bond had not been set as of this morning for Gary Garrett Terry, of Llangeler Drive.

Terry was arrested by Ruston police on Monday after they received information he had an inappropriate relationship with a 15-year-old, said RPD public information officer Lt. Curtis Hawkins.

“Our investigators were able to determine the two had been in contact with each other through a couple of different means over the past few weeks,” Hawkins said.

“They had contact and had spoken to each other numerous times over that time. They agreed to meet in person here in Ruston, and they did in fact meet at a local business and then went to a vehicle.”

Hawkins said based on information received by the department, it appears the two had some type of sexual contact inside the vehicle.