

Second Life

Second Life is an online social networking tool within a virtual world providing built-in support for VOIP. It is owned and operated by Linden Lab, Inc. but is being developed as an open source platform. Second Life has attracted a large amount of attention for many reasons, including as a way to reduce carbon emissions by encouraging online business and social transactions.

TLS provides legal consulting to developers and special interest organizations within Second Life. Through over three years working with leading content developers and service providers within Second Life, TLS has acquired expertise and unique access to some of the most qualified and knowledgeable developers within Second Life.

TLS can help you decide whether a presence in Second Life is a good investment for your business, host an event, or develop virtual 3d environments for your applications within Second Life.

Please contact TLS for more information.